Dear

Contents of your letter of 5 May 1954, same subject, have been noted. The undersigned sees no reason to take exception to your conclusions.

With respect to the disposition of such minor items of excess materials as the unused moulding, varnish not used on the cabinets, etc., it is suggested that you judge the likelihood of their being of some future use to the people and, if this seems improbable, you check the feasibility of having the materials shipped to the local warehouse for more likely use by others.

Very truly yours,
